
	CONFLICT MINERALS POLICY
PQ-SGQ-5.3-02	REV.: 01	DATA: 04/01/17	PÁG.: 1 / 1

HISTORY

In 2010, Congress passed the Dodd-Frank Act Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection requires, among other things, research, record and disclose the use of conflict minerals called the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) or in the surrounding countries. Conflict minerals include gold, tin, tantalum and tungsten or its derivatives, whose extraction and trade are directly and indirectly helping armed groups and considered funding source of conflicts in these areas.

OUR COMMITMENT

The Isolet is committed to complying fully available to the Dodd-Frank on "conflict minerals" and the implementation of regulations of the SEC.

In support of this commitment, we will work with our suppliers to implement due diligence practices to allow full compliance with that law and those regulations.

EXPECTATIONS REGARDING SUPPLIERS

The Isolet expects its suppliers to adopt a similar policy, responds to annual consultations related to "conflict minerals" and implement one due diligence with its supply chain and suppliers to know the origin of the minerals contained in parts, components and products supplied to Isolet to enable an adequate and in accordance with the final rule "conflict minerals" SEC disclosure. If a supplier can not or will not follow the above requirements, it is the intention of Isolet take appropriate action to seek suppliers who can and who act in accordance with the rule.
